DIVINE POWER LINES

Reconnecting to Your Source Within

Susan Frink Anderson

LET'S EXPLORE THE AUTHOR'S PURPOSE AND BACKGROUND

What was my inspiration for writing this book?

As a therapist and teacher of many courses to help people find their true self and live honestly, I noticed certain patterns that kept people disempowered from living the life God had purposed for them. They had lost hope in their own dreams which had led them to live adapted to others needs over their own. Many had lost touch with their own reality and were living out of a false self, based on who they thought other people (or, even their religion) needed them to be.

I could see they were living out of a separate self in conflict with their true Son of God self. What amazed me most was that both believers and non-believers were operating the same ways. I had expected believers to be more aware of their divided self, full of inner conflicts. Of course, I noticed the anxiety and depression from this double life and trying to please two masters was creating (hypocrisy). I asked the Spirit of God to give me a way to help believers regain Sovereignty to serve One Master. Of course, all the inspiration came from God and the Way He would help each one of my clients tap into His Divine Power for them to return to the truth of His Perfect Love within.

What are some distinctive qualities that make this book stand out from other books?

My book is not a 'how to' or one of methodology like most self-help books. This is a book that takes one on their own inner journey of physical and psychological healing while simultaneously allowing spiritual empowerment to take over those old programs full of fear, anger, shame and guilt. Each person will be able to reconnect with an internal divinity by means of the Spirit of God doing the work. The Source of All Power lies in this catalyst that carries transformational power lines that transmit Perfect Love internally to radiate and clear out all disease.

Introducing "Divine Power Lines"

This book is not geared to any religion. It is about God and His One Spirit that has no separation or divisions between His children. This book is about Grace and how it fills in the spaces of conflict when you come alive under the blessing of its full power to rise above human conditioning. We are all God's Children and we need to come together from that Point of View so we can observe our self and each other from the Divine aspects of our internal connections as the Source of our images.

I am an expert in trauma-based therapy to help cure anxiety and depression with extensive training and experience in PTSD and other complex emotional and spiritual issues.

I am well versed in teaching courses in holistic healing (mind, body, spirit) that helps individuals take responsibility for self-empowerment and awakening to awareness of spirituality. I have over 25 years of successful experience in this field- teaching, counseling and extensive private practice all across the US and beyond.

Here are just a few of the issues that will be addressed in this book:

#1

Human conditioning is constructed to teach its children from a double-minded broadcast of conflicts and opposites. This transmission also applies to judging God based on lies from false narratives humans are conditioned to tell.

#2

Human story lines are all theater, covered with heavy make-up and rehearsed lines to create real drama and entertain us until it isn't fun anymore. Then, we find ourselves confused and wallowing in dire straits of pain. The stories are all victim and villain based with the characters out of balance within us playing the roles that create drama from our inner imagination projecting it to the world we experience.

#3

We all carry a terror-filled story mind of fear and scarcity (living in Scare City with all its crazed mindsets). The Spirit of God is always working behind the scenes and intends to set us free from irrational fear. We are destined to be living fearless without the anxiety and depression this world creates as its reality.

#4

Feeling unstable, anxious, depressed or triggered by the outer world will happen. However, from the new vantage point, it is perceived as an opportunity to clear another fragment of the old way. When we recognize we are all moving in agreement with a renewed mind, body and spirit, each of us can support one another with Grace.

#5

Unconsciousness that seeks knowledge apart from spiritual guidance remains full of doubts, schisms and scattered thought systems. It is deceptive and, tricks us to go on wild goose chases. We run back and forth between logic and our creative side making up false beliefs to fill in the unknown craters that fear creates. The unknown is like a child's imagination that loves to tell stories about the noises and shadows perceived as being real. Humans love to make up drama to explain using reasons that add external causes as to why everything 'might' be happening.

Actually, all that is really happening with all the running in circles of human reasoning is the making of false constructs, like the phony fronts in a movie set that appear real to the camera of our eyes. Without a messenger to let us know what is real and what is imagined, we can make up any reality desired (and we do). It is actually a game we are able to play that relieves our anxiety while we fill in the blanks with answers we copied from others that sound smart to us. We fake it and pretend we know something from our unconscious state (some people call it b.s., or belief systems).

#7

Our double-minded, conflicted thinking keeps recycling dirty energy to fuel our emotions with faulty opinions, skewing us way out of balance. We all carry aspects of the spectrum of unbalanced control that is lacking spiritual empowerment. This condition suppresses us leaving few options to release our pent-up feelings that automatically trigger more reactivity full of anger and grief. Reconnection to the Source of Power (God) is the only way to stabilize us and restore our central core.

#8

This book will simply demonstrate living and overcoming all troubled waters while offloading the falsely created programs and return to the full truth of your divine identity. Truth comes from the frequencies of a kingdom that knows the way you were meant to choose your life with spiritual sovereignty of Grace. Demystifying life to discover an existence with a 'Grace Guide' (who knows the truth of our inner landscape) pulls back the curtains allowing Light to awaken us. All old perceptual handicaps can then be removed to reveal what can no longer be hidden. Truth dawns and exposes all the false appearances to be viewed with new insights.

Divine Power Lines

Who would choose to identify with human resources over the inheritance of the Supreme Sovereign Ruler of the Universe who put everything into motion? Seems pretty silly to me. Even worse, who dares to think they knew or could ever know how to balance the energy that holds the earth and entire universe in place? That sounds pretty arrogant, narcissistic (ego inflated) and full of madness, right? Of course, I know who would do that, and who has done that—those who do not know God personally.
