Divine Shifts and Enlightenment

Manmade or Godmade? What do you say in the heart of your mind?

Human faulty thinking carries all the fault lines that use words in ways that will always fall prey to judgment. As a species, humans are of the animal kingdom that instinctually is ordered based on survival. Lower animals use their nervous system in natural ways that react using fight, flight and freeze in order to live. The kingdom of humans has been gifted with higher powers and the highest animal with the most power to survive from a mind and body and spirit. Most humans are behaving closer to the animal kingdom than the highest levels that have been gifted to mankind.

God made man in the Highest Image of His Own Consciousness that spoke all things into existence. Humans do have free will to explore and make choices on the way or the levels of their existence. It appears humankind has only just begun to rise above the levels that appear to have grounded all that has been given to rise above animal limitations. Many would say that humans have made many advances in their development as a species and have survived well in spite of hardships. Of course, that perspective depends on the way it is being evaluated and WHO is doing the assessment.

It is my humble opinion that it is possible that man is on the rise and fall simultaneously. I know we are mind, body and spirit and have a soul that can carry a lot of heaviness from emotional burdening and the contrasts of darkness and light. The main guidance I use for my perspectives are to try and bring in the Highest Spirit of all that is Good and Perfect. I call that Divine Source, God and I do see God as Omniscient, Omnipotent and Omnipresent. I also do seek the highest wisdom from that Source to connect to all the choices I make in life. When I see my true self as an image of God, I can view all things from within that kingdom vs. separated from Divine Sovereignty. Sensing life from this Top Down position became challenging when I observed that not all beings were of this mindset and were taking divided, mirrored or separated points of view.

My Journey of Life was a choice all along that I knew I was responsible for and that no other human could be my sovereign or Highest Guide. I always knew that from an early age. Not everyone has that understanding so must be we all have a story to carry on earth and work things out from within that story line. I am not saying my story was easier or harder than any other story as I have had plenty of human drama and trauma. I do not believe stories are to be compared. This is what helps me. I can only listen to another story someone is telling and support them through it as best I can. To think I can understand or feel their pain and suffering is only something that comes from my imagination.

The true perspective for me is that we must all develop from the imagination or the story we choose at any given season of our life. There are aspects of all human perspectives that depend on perception and choice. For example, as a victim of another's abuse placed upon me, I have choices to heal that pain or to carry it as a badge of suffering. This is a choice that every adult can make. There will be consequences along the victim path, however, as unhealed pain opens a space within to harbor fear, judgment, bitterness, unforgiveness, shame, rage, and other lower levels of fear and guilt. Living under the influence of unhealed story lines is unnecessary but many people make the choice to hide their pain or show it to the world and talk about it over and over until they become one within. This is a creation of humans and not God.

Part of the epic human story telling actually appear to enjoy talking about their sufferings and making up layers of reasons why they choose to remain in it. It is a broadcast that works as other humans love the drama and play along in a game of 'ain't it awful or how can I rescue you, you poor thing?' The game is pretty insane but continues as long as humans continue to believe in the need to be ill at ease and let illness be the ruler of their mind, body and spirit. We can all see the results of this insanity to believe that there is no power to overcome a troubled life.

Her: " Hey - wait a minute. It's scary out there.

Him: "Yea - so you think it's not scary in here?!"

The messages that carry fear of man and his story lines of doubt, worry, anxiety and depression carry a lot of force in a world that conforms to those beliefs. Multiple messages of worry, anxiety and fear continues to get constructed regarding the next terrible thing to come our way. This is what makes the news and saturates our minds to be steeped in a never-ending tale that will keep our nervous systems in chronically conditioned to accept that all false beliefs are real and true. We are attached to these stories, love their drama and drink it in daily. This is the state of our human condition and it has reached critical mass as now many are sick and dying with the spread of a 'flu' that has influenced the world to conform to the spread of mass confusion.

Consider this premise carefully and think about how it might be true:

Manmade FEAR MESSAGES CREATE DIVISIONS AND ENFORCE RULING ENERGY formed from the forces founded in faulty human thinking -abusing separateness from the knowledge of good and evil mind setting.

Those splits and judgments made up binary mind settings full of poisons from fear of man that draws from attachment to:

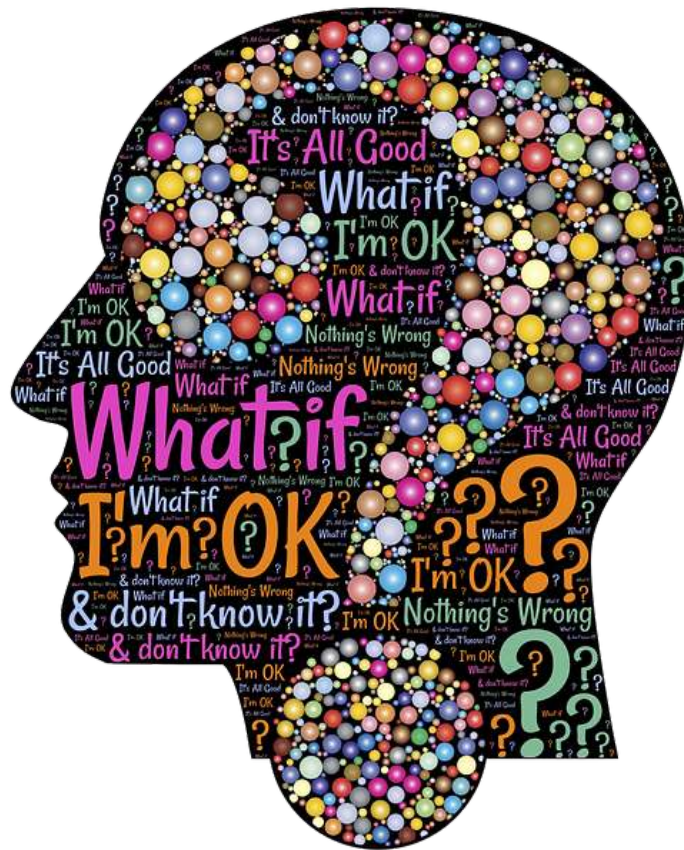

Shame, guilt, grief, apathy, anger, lusts of desire and pride derived from double minded judging that depends totally on the limited perspectives and perceptions of the mind and heart making those 'calls.' Each individual has many biases that will lead man to create from many degrees of erroneous unconsciousness---distorted thinking patterns, perverted affections and enslavement to his free will are all parts of the spells that keep humans bound in conflict that mirrors or projects falsely onto self and others. Stories and systems are full of this nonsense (choosing to create and make meaning from the delusions of his illusions)=hypocrisy of the double minded rulers used to justify actions taken to justify the means desired)

Modern humans, have been groomed to live under the influence of FEAR and anxious concern as a way of life. The language of fear is common and accepted as normal talk. There is continual broadcasting to one of another of all our concerns and worries as to what went wrong (past references), what is wrong (present) and what could go wrong (future).

Our brain is saturated with worst case scenarios and even mantras that we use like, “Hope for the best and prepare for the worst.” It is accepted that this will put your mind at ease as you are lessening the negative chatter. In reality, this is a conflicting statement and does what fear fluency always does...disempowers and limits as it is contradiction with itself. Since the modern human is in conflict with God, self and others, the highest intelligence to use is the brain that includes a survival nervous system. The brain but will choose the path that is the safest and most well-traveled route. Therefore, it will choose a safe mode that will limit the risks when its user is more tense, fearful and fears risk taking so will limit spontaneity and will want to control outcomes using experience. Others who are more out of balance at the other end will choose more risky paths and even pathological choices that serve an ego or adapted self.

What am I saying?

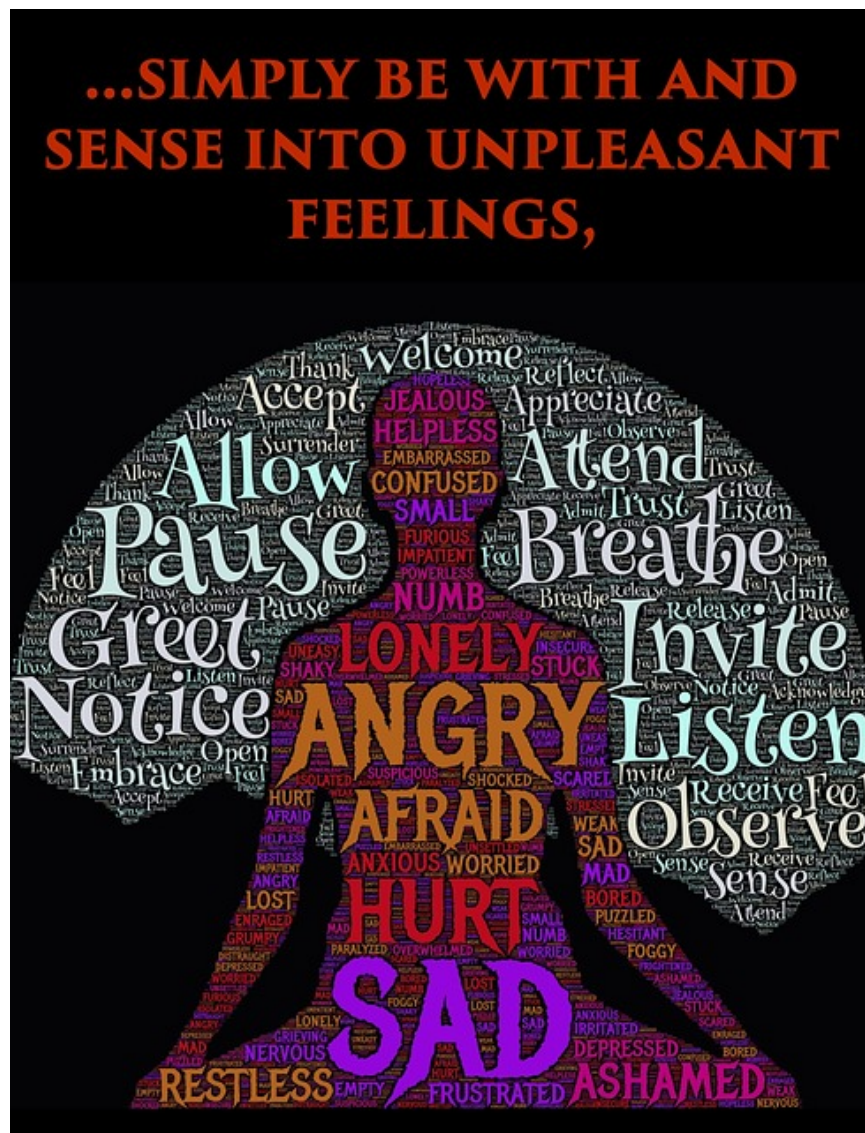

Human conversations are filled with fear messages that confuse and mix us up. Do this, don't do that, that's bad, that's good, and on we babble as a collective. Fear messages create a state of chronic anxiety that puts our nervous system in a constant state of fight (aggression), flight (avoid), or some kind of freeze (stuckness).

One of the first and best antidotes to the human conditioning based on its fear filled animal nature is to find an inner voice that will begin to watch words, thoughts and behavioral patterns from a spiritual or higher aspect of self. This is found from getting quiet, seeking God and Divine Power lines to help locate faulty human lines. Ask for a system to guide and help shift thoughts into greater awareness that will observe how choices are made. Help from this Higher Guidance located within and connected to higher aspects of self is always available but will not interfere until it is asked to do so. This is because God allows us to have free will to choose and gives plenty of opportunities to do so.

Sometimes, opportunities come in the form of pain and suffering that appears to be the worst thing. What upsets us is often the very thing that is a set up for advancement and reconnection to God and all the power lines that are always present to give us comfort, aid, and develop our spiritual maturity. The relationship with the Mind and Heart of God is always set up for our advancement and spiritual evolution. Having the confidence to hear God and know that you can trust and obey His pathways sets the soul free to begin to choose higher ways that are not in conflict with the desires of our heart. As a matter of fact, they are always choosing the best and giving the most help to get those desires met. You can always count on the mind of God to know exactly what you need and give you all you truly would love.

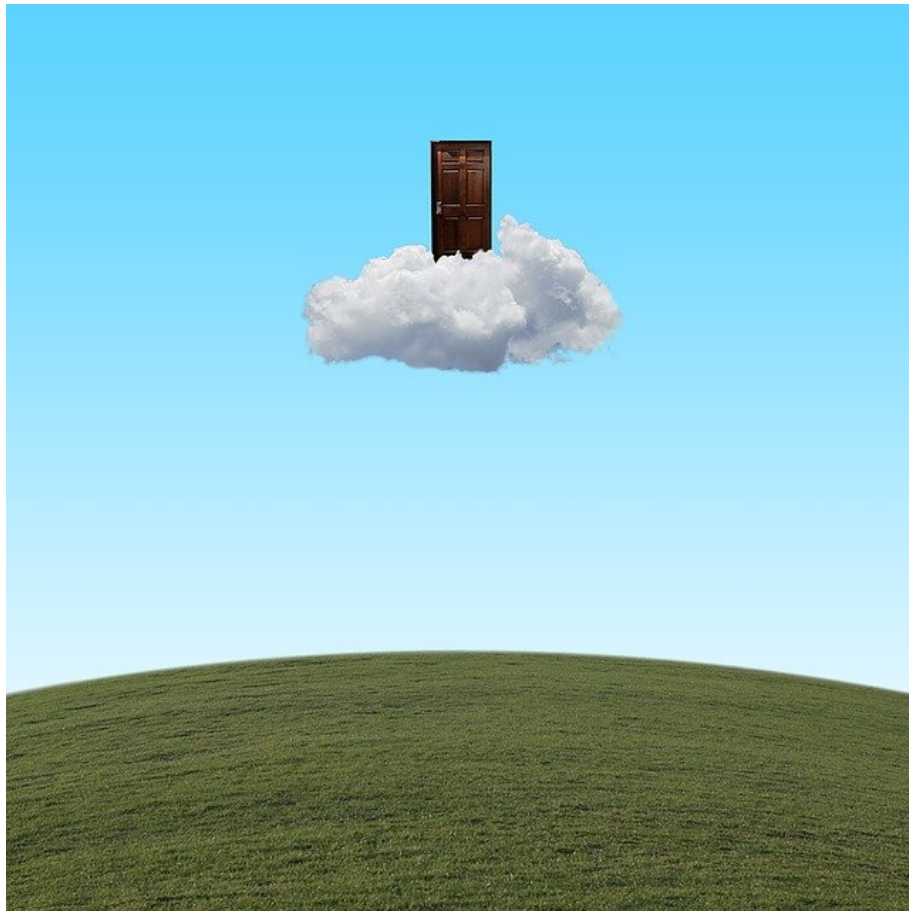

The choice to choose a life led by the Spirit of God as its best Source and GPS is available for each of God's children. Some will use it as a part time help to add on to their human programming, some will ignore it completely, and some will attempt to think their way into the Kingdom of God by works or doing to earn.

Divine Shifts and Enlightenment

Few will choose to seek the Love of God and Know His Presence in a personal way of Father to Son or Daughter that will give them perfect love to overcome all the lies of the world and its false beliefs. That doesn't mean that the offer will be taken away because those that do know and have received this unity and oneness within will continue to spread the truth. Good news is already being shared by those who have heard the wake-up call. Living life under the influence of the Infinite Mind full of eternal love is spreading and it is a virus worth catching.

The ascending of the awakened ones shine light and truth to the earth from their experiences. We know grace will give a way to overcome division and separation. Living without a shadow of a doubt comes from inner knowing it is already a done deal. We are just walking through with our lights on to assist in any way that will help everyone see and know their purpose in the ascension.

BE THE LIGHT FROM THE SOURCE OF ALL LOVE
